This Week in Butterflies and Caterpillars

This week we have been excited to see the baby robins leaving the nest and spending time in our garden. We have been very careful not to hurt them and have been thinking about baby animals, birds and nests. Some of the children have been making nests and eggs and small birds with the clay.

This Week in Tiny Eggs

In Tiny Eggs we have been making marks with our hands in paintings. We have been thinking about how things grow and the children have been very interested in how the beans they planted have grown. They have also been showing a lot of interest in our fish.

Year 1 Class Blog - Rainbow Fish

In Rainbow Fish class, this week we have started to learn about the seaside! On Monday we completed a science experiment where we tested which type of sand could make the sturdiest sand castle using dry, damp and wet sand. We found out that damp sand made the strongest castle. The next day, we went to Hunstanton beach where we used damp sand to build our sand castles and decorated them with seashells that we collected on the beach. We also hunted for rocks covered in barnacles, buried our feet in the sand and splashed in the water. We had a lovely day and are looking forward to learning more about the seaside!

Year 6 Class Blog - Stormbreakers

The only thought in the minds of all of Stormbreakers this week has been SATs! Yes, it's SATs week and, along with the rest of Y6, Stormbreakers have been sitting tests in reading, maths, spelling, punctuation and grammar. All the children have worked so hard revising whether in school, at home or in booster sessions after school. I am very proud of the determination and effort they have shown - well done Stormbreakers! Today we celebrated the end of SATs with a day at Russell Park, and we are all looking forward to getting back into our normal routine next week.

News from Year 1

Year 1 enjoyed an excellent, if windy day at Hunstanton Beach on Tuesday 15th May. They built sandcastles, collected shells and paddled. The children were very well behaved and we would like to say a big thank you to parents that helped.

Work following on from the visit will continue for the next few weeks. They will be learning about coastal features and sea creatures.
